Near the easternmost shore of the Big Island of Hawai'i, is Kipuka Village. Located in Kapoho, Kipuka is a gem among tropical gems. A stand-alone destination resort property with a main home and four romantic bamboo guest houses, the compound is also home to a world-renowned collection of more than 360 distinct palm species numbering over 3,000 individual trees on 6 landscaped acres. The garden was the vision of an avid palm enthusiast who had thousands of truckloads of black, volcanic cinder brought in to create a sculpted topography that must be seen to appreciate.
